

My telephone is a service that I pay for to have the convenience to communicate with my friends and neighbors. As a consumer I resent the fact that telemarketers are using a service that I pay for to harass me during the few hours of free time that I have in the afternoons to spend with my family. And yes, "TELEMARKETERS" include Radio and Television stations. I make my own decisions as to what programs I watch or listen to and do not feel the need to have someone making suggestions as to what programs I do watch or listen to.
